SAVE FLOUR ON THESE BISCUITS

Mr. J. Barbour Hussell yesterday brought to this office some biscuits which looked very tempting. They were baked in his home and he says that only one-third the usual amount of wheat flour is required to make them. Following is the recipe:

One cup wheat flour, 3 cups Snow White corn flour, 1 tablespoonful lard, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoonful baking powder, 1 level teaspoonful soda, 1 teaspoonful salt, 2 cups sour milk. Let stand 2 hours before baking.

The Dixie Quartet will entertain with a black-faced Minstrel Show, Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the High School auditorium. The fun is fast and furious. They have many stunts, jokes, comic songs, dialogues, gags, etc. They are all hunting sweethearts and have a song to this effect. They are David Cole, Suduth Royse, Leslie Slye and Leslie Walker. Girls! Take your choice.

Mrs. Mary French and son, George, leave this week for Akron, Ohio, where they will make their future home with Miss Alice Frederick, who resides there.

Annie Brewer, charged with using language calculated to provoke a breach of the peace, was fined $5.95 in St. Louis Fred W. Bauer's Court yesterday.

The charge of petit larceny against Elmer Carr, colored, was dismissed in Police Court yesterday because of a lack of evidence.

CAMP LIFE

Interestingly Described by Rev. A. F. Stahl, Who Is Now Working Among Soldiers at Camp McClellan, Ala.

Camp McClellan, March 19, 1918. The Public-Ledger:

Believing that not only the members of the Christian Church but many others in Mason county would like to hear from this camp, I therefore write you this letter.

Anniston is in the midst of the mountains. The government selected this place because it is high and healthy. I am told that 18,000 acres were purchased by Uncle Sam for his camp site. Beginning with the Remount division and extending over the mountain ridges on through the camp proper to the extreme end where the rifle-range are must be seven if not eight miles. Main gravel roads and many cross roads are now built through all of this tract of land. Because of the contour of the land all these roads wind and curve much to the beauty of the place. In addition to these main gravel roads all of which are given historical names, there are other miles of shorter roads called company streets. These are dirt streets about twenty feet wide, well made and drained, which run between the rows of company tents. Some of these company streets extend back from the regimental gravel road a half a mile. This is so in the Ammunition Trains and in the Heavy Field Artillery Battalions, far back of the rows of tents will be found the stables for mules and horses and also the heavy ammunition and artillery wagons. The ambulance Trains and Field Hospital also have longer streets than the infantry. One evening I counted about a hundred auto-ambulance trucks back of the tents of Field Hospital, No. 116.

These streets were made by the boys in the camp. When such work is done the boys wear blue overalls instead of the khaki. The removing of stumps and the leveling of the ground for the tents and for the drill grounds is also largely done by the boys of the camp.

The disarming thing for a company is for it to move from the place they have fixed up to a new place in the camp where they have the same work to do over again. Sergeant Cushman of 104 Ammunition train, told me his men had been ordered to make three moves. Each time leaving their well made streets for some other company to enjoy while they had new streets to build at each new place. They were just completing a street when I first called to see him. These company streets where the tents are, are not used by vehicles but by the men of the company. In them they form their line to answer to the roll call in the morning after reveille and in the evening at what is called retreat. All the ground about the company tents is kept free from any debris. You could not find a piece of paper the size of a postage stamp nor a cigarette stub in these company streets nor in the regimental streets either.

The tents in which the soldiers are billeted are 16x16 with a board floor. Six men occupy a tent. All have canvas-covered cots. Every so often these cots are set out in the company street for an airing, more particularly to enable the boys to scrub and re-oil their tent floor. It matters not how dusty (and let me say the dust raises here like a Sarah sand storm) this same work of airing the cots goes on.

Ordinarily the cots are left on the tent floor and the tent cover furled. The dust settle in on everything.

You can dip it off the cots with a spoon. However the boys have gotten use to it by now. Somehow it still goes against by views in the matter. It will take me some time to get over the sensation of chewing sand.

I have given you a rather lengthy description of the streets, I will leave for another writing a description of some of the other things. To me it is all very interesting. I sleep at "Y" Building No. 112 and get my meals in the Y. M. C. A. mess shack. Of course I have to pay for my meals though I am given the room in which there is a cot and a chair and an oil heater. The many nails on the bare walls furnish me a clothes press and a board on a box makes my desk.

While I am writing, I hear the artillery practice. It sounds like thunder.

The heavy Artillery Battalion No. 110 and 112 take their turns night and day in the long range artillery practices. The targets are twelve miles away from where the men station their guns. I have been within about a half mile of them when they discharge the six inch gun. The earth shakes at each shot. They do not see the target at which they shoot, but are given its range. The result of the shot is telegraphed or telephoned to the gunners commander.

The rifle range practice is also interesting but I have not time to describe that now. I have been kept busy making addresses in the mess shacks and Y. M. C. A. buildings.

PETROGRAD IS DOOMED

German Forces are Advancing on Russian Capital—No Attempt at Resistance Planned and Inhabitants Apparently Indifferent.

"London, March 20—Occupation of Petrograd by the Germans is only a matter of hours, according to dispatches from Petrograd to several of the morning newspapers. The Russian capital is said to be assuming a waiting attitude and is not displaying the slightest sign of organized resistance."

"The Germans are reported in a Reuter dispatch from Petrograd to have reached the vicinity of the station, about 150 miles south of Petrograd. The Austro-German advance in Southern Russia continues. The enemy has occupied Sonny, five hours' march from Kharkov, the dispatch says."

"The various reports from Russia also indicate the greatest anxiety over what appears to be an enveloping movement the Austro-German forces are carrying out against Moscow. There is talk of moving the government, according to these advices, to Sarjof (probably Saratoff, 450 miles southeast of Moscow) or to Nizhni Novgorod (265 miles northeast of Moscow.)"

"A Reuter dispatch from Petrograd, dated March 19, reports the Patriarch of the Russian church to have sent a message to the orthodox population declaring that the church cannot regard as binding a peace which dismembers the country and places it under the domination of a conquering foreign power. In this connection the Communist is quoted as declaring that the Russian proletariat cannot make further concessions, but must be ready to rise at any moment irrespective of its state of preparedness."

"Evacuation of Petrograd by the Bolshevik government departments was ordered last week, and all are now in Moscow, which the Lenin government has declared the Russian capital. When the order to move to Moscow was given, it was said that Petrograd probably would be declared a free port.

"The dispensing thing for a company is for it to move from the place they have fixed up to a new place in the camp where they have the same work to do over again. Sergeant Cushman of 104 Ammunition train, told me his men had been ordered to make three moves. Each time leaving their well made streets for some other company to enjoy while they had new streets to build at each new place. They were just completing a street when I first called to see him. THE WORLD REVOLUTION

Most citizens have listened, with scepticism or alarm, in past years, to the hurangues of soap-box Socialist orators, prophesying an era in which society will be turned upside down. Now we find a multi-millionaire captain of industry announcing the same "revolution." Charles M. Schwab, addressing an audience of public school alumni in New York, says:

"We are at the threshold of a new social era. It is going to come upon us sooner than we expect. It is a social renaissance, and it is world-wide. It means that the man who labors with his hands is going to dominate not merely Russia, Germany and the United States, but the whole world."

Mr. Schwab doesn't want the change. He is pretty well satisfied with things as they are. But he is sure it is coming, and is reconciled to it.

It will be a revolution indeed, but a slow and peaceful one. "The translation from the old to the new order will be so gradual that we will hardly realize that it has occurred." And it won't be so bad, after all.

"The aristocracy of the future is not going to be an aristocracy of wealth. It is going to be the aristocracy of men who have done something for their country and for the world at large. When that time comes, wealth will not be the standard, nor will birth, but the standard will be honorable and straightforward demeanor.

"I am not anxious to give away my wealth," he says frankly. "The more wealth and power one acquires, the more one wants. I am not sure that this coming change in society will be better for you or me. But whether it will or not, we must be prepared to accept it, for it is coming, and nearer than we think."

"Whatever the Creator has designed will come, and it will be good. Changes in social conditions do not come by men alone, but because God decries them."

This is a remarkable utterance, any way you look at it. It is especially significant coming from a great capitalistic leader. If he thinks so, men of his class in general are probably thinking along the same lines.

Maybe he's right. Anyhow his optimism, in the face of a future he expects and doesn't want, is reassuring. If the Schwabs can stand such a social and political overturn as he foresees, 'most anybody can stand it.

PRUSSIANISM UNMASKED

Maybe the Russian situation isn't so bad as it looks on the surface, so far as the broad issues and outcome of the war are concerned. Russia's plight looks desperate and the immediate effect on the Allies is discouraging, but it's quite possible to figure out a silver lining for that particular cloud.

The most obviously beneficial effect of Germany's behavior toward Russia is that it makes absolutely clear to all the world the sinister purposes of the German government. Prussianism has thrown off its mask. We see it reaching out its mailed fist, frank and unashamed, to strike down a helpless country eager for peace, to grab vast territories vital to Russia's national existence, to impose a staggering indemnity and impose its system on tens of millions of people of alien race. And this from a government that lately professed to acquiesce in the Russian principles of "no annexations, no indemnities and the self-determination of races!"

Natural nations now perceive beyond the shadow of a doubt the black menace that German victory would hold for all free peoples. All the fighting forces of freedom and decency set about their task with renewed determination. Deluded pacifists in the allied countries are silenced and convinced. And in Russia herself there is the shock of a great awakening.

The Russian pacifists now see that they were mistaken in believing that German hearts would answer responsively to their own, that German workmen and peasants would lay down their arms if the Russians set the example, that the German people would rise en masse to foil the aims of the militarists. They realize that no word or act of the present rulers of Germany can be trusted. They are coming to see that if they care for their own country, their land, their freedom, they will have no fight as France and Belgium are fighting.

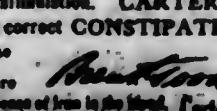

It is conceivable that the Germans may succeed in their ambitions plan of Russian conquest. But it is possible that in true Prussian fashion they have overreached themselves. Their invasion is the one thing likely to re-unite the quarreling factions and races of Russia, if anything is capable of that result. We may yet see Russia turning against the unscrupulous invader as she turned against Napoleon a hundred years ago.

THE LEAN MONTHS

February and March are always the hard months to live through. It is easy enough to go through the early part of winter on the spur of energy left over by summer and fall. But after the corner of the year is turned, and the Christmas excitement is over, and life settles down to a grind, it seems very long time till spring.

This is especially true in the matter of food. And more so than ever in this time of war. Only in big and expensive city markets are green foods obtainable, and that cuts most people out. Last summer housewives earned more vegetables than ever before. They still have these to draw on, and they still taste pretty good. But in most homes just about now, people are tired of everything. They are finding it hard to do without bacon—one a staple, but now religiously saved for the soldiers in France. They find it hard to do without sugar. It is hard to pay the high prices for the few things which the situation or their consciousness will let them buy.

But—after all, it's pretty easy for Americans when they think of what the other nations are enduring. And, all—it's not long now till spring. The Germans will find these months far leaner than we will, for this is their fourth lean year. If they can stand it, we certainly can.

CENTRAL P.T. A. BUSY

The ladies of the Parent-Teacher Association at the Central building, undertook at the beginning of the school year, to install a complete line of playground apparatus for the children. They had a small balance from last year's funds and with this as nucleus, they decided to undertake the task of supplying about $225 worth of playground apparatus for their building. This apparatus consists of nine swings, two trapeze, one pair of flying rings, one climbing pole, and one slide; all of it being galvanized metal with ball bearings, with the exception of the slide. After employing several means of raising funds, the debt was reduced to $45. The ladies have been worrying of late as to how best to raise this amount, when Mrs. J. T. Kackley and Mrs. Carrie Russell, took us all by surprise as they appeared in the office of the superintendent yesterday morning, with checks amounting to $59.05, which they had secured through their efforts and through the kindness of Mr. Day of the Home, Mr. Turner, of the Peoples, and Mr. Jones of the Liberty Warehouse.

The ladies of this association can now justly feel proud of their accomplishment, since it is no little task to equip a building with the kind of apparatus that they have supplied for the Central building. Also through the kindness of Couwell, a light has been placed near the center of the playground, so that it will soon be, when the warm evenings come, one of the favorite spots for the children. The apparatus is practically indestructible and will be of inestimable service to the teachers in solving disciplinary problems.

The playground space is so limited at the Central building we were compelled to make intensive use of the small space given us, and the only way to do that was through equipping the lot with apparatus, as above described.

The war can be won only if we deliver the men, the ships, and the food in sufficient number and quantities to make our war program effective. "Will you not help your country again this year even in a bigger and a better way than you did during the summer of 1917? Your task will be to beat your own record in food production and conservation. May your motto for 1918 be, 'every scout to feed a soldier and one other.'

"I desire to extend to you the hearty good will and cooperation of the officials of the United States Department of Agriculture, also that of the cooperative club leaders of boys' and girls' extension work at the agricultural colleges, who will be glad to assist you in your work."

Enclosed also find a number of application blanks a copy which be furnished to each dealer at as early a date as possible. You will instruct the dealers to immediately have such number of these forms printed as will be required by them as it is compulsory on the part of the retail dealer to see that every consumer fills out one of these application blanks before any delivery is made.

Please arrange to give the plan the widest possible publicity. Having it published in the newspapers in your territory would be the means of acquainting more people with the plan, than in any other way. If you have, however, some other means of bring-or should apply to the Local Fuel Administration who should see that their requirements receive attention from the proper dealer.

Car-Load or Barge-Load Lots to Domestic Consumers

Car-load or barge-load lots shall not be delivered to a single domestic consumer or to a group of consumers, except with the permission of the County Fuel Administration.

The County Fuel Administration may require, if they deem necessary, on the first of each month a statement containing the names and addresses of consumers to whom deliveries have been made during the previous month of the quantity delivered to each consumer.

Any dealer or consumer who violates the foregoing regulations will be subject to the penalties prescribed by the Lever Act.

The purpose of the plan is to secure the broadest and most equitable distribution possible during the coming year. The Fuel Administration is assured by the representatives of the National Retail Coal Merchants Association that the retail dealers throughout the country will lend their hearty co-operation in the performance of this patriotic service.

Yours very truly,
W. B. BRYAN,
Federal Fuel Administrator, Kentucky.

P. S.—Additional copies of this memorandum and blank form will be furnished upon application.

Retail Distribution for Season 1918-19—Consumers Urged to Obtain Normal Requirements Early

Every consumer should be urged to place with his regular dealer his order for his reasonable normal requirements for the year ending March 31, 1919, as soon as possible. The Fuel Administration will be reluctant to assist those who were able to secure their supply and failed to do so.

Regulations Governing Distribution of Bituminous Coal

1. Until further notice no domestic consumer of coal or coke shall purchase, receive, or otherwise take possession of more coal or coke than is required for his actual and necessary requirements prior to March 31, 1919. If such consumer already has a quantity on hand he shall receive only such additional amount as shall make up his actual and necessary requirements prior to that date.

2. No person, firm, association or corporation, whether acting alone or in conjunction with others, shall directly or indirectly provide any domestic consumer of coal or coke with more coal or coke before March 31, 1919, than is necessary, with the amount already on hand, to meet the actual and necessary requirements of such consumer prior to that date.

3. When an order is placed by a consumer and before delivery can be made on same the consumer must certify on blanks to be provided by the dealer, to the following information:

(a) The amount of coal used by him in the twelve months ending March 31, 1918.

(b) The amount of coal the consumer has on hand.

(c) The amount of coal needed to meet his actual and necessary requirements prior to March 31, 1919.

(d) The amount of coal he has on order and the name of the person from whom ordered.

Regulations Covering Distribution of Anthracite Coal.

The foregoing regulations regarding the distribution of bituminous coal also apply to the distribution of anthracite coal, except that no consumer shall receive more than two-thirds of his annual normal requirements, until all orders placed with the dealer have been filled to this extent, then the dealer may proceed to complete the orders of consumers willing to accept the same; provided, further, however, that when such requirements are not in excess of six tons their orders may be filled in full.

New consumers who are unable to have their orders accepted by a deal-

A THOROUGH TEST

One to Convince the Most Skeptical Maysville Reader.

The test of time is the test that counts.

Doan's Kidney Pills have made their reputation by effective action. The following case is typical.

Maysville residents should be convinced.

The testimony is confirmed—the proof complete.

Testimony like this cannot be ignored.

Henry S. Galleanstein, blacksmith, 124 W. Third St., Maysville, says: "My kidneys were out of order and I had pains through my back. Doan's Kidney Pills put an entire stop to the pains and my kidneys became well." (Statement given January 9, 1912).

RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Over four years later, or on November 14, 1916, Mr. Galleanstein said: "I haven't had any need of a kidney medicine since I last recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. The benefit they gave me has been permanent."

Mr. Galleanstein is only one of many Maysville people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS, the same that Mr. Galleanstein had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 60 cents at all stores. A Conserving Food

The recognized value of

as a "saving" food for these serious times, rests upon real merit.

Unlike the ordinary cereal Grape-Nuts requires no sugar, little milk or cream, and requires no cooking or other preparation in serving.

A trial is well worth while for those who sincerely desire to save.

set for the Republican United States senatorial nomination this year. They believe the party could not nominate a stronger man. Judge Bethurum is known throughout the state, he is a capable public speaker, and would make the race interesting for anyone who opposes him.

Thus far Dr. Ben L. Bruner, of Louisville, is the only announced candidate for this nomination. Judge McKenzie Moss, of Bowling Green, and Judge Charles Kerr, of Lexington, are looked upon generally, however, as probable candidates, and an early announcement by the former would not be surprising to members of the Legislature interested in politics.

W. D. Cochran, of Maysville, also is being urged to seek the senatorial nomination. Mr. Cochran, who is a member of the State Central Committee for the state-at-large, has been a leader in Republican politics for a number of years. If he should make the race he would have the support of the Franks-McCulloch element, formerly dominant in Kentucky Republicanism. Mr. Cochran has many friends in the Legislature who are urging his availability.

Huntington, W. Va., March 19—Huntington shippers have subscribed for $20,000 of stock in the proposed $30,000 river boat line corporation and will call for a shown-down from the other cities, Wednesday.

If the other cities between Cincinnati and Parkersburg have done as well as Huntington, it is expected the corporation will be organized immediately and work started. Cincinnati was allotted $100,000 and will report on progress tomorrow.

The $20,000 allotment of stock for Huntington was gobbled up in four or five hours and was distributed among twenty shippers, each of whom took shares at $100 each. This method of distribution is favored because it interests a large number of shippers who will patronize the line and boost it after it is in operation.

FARMERS MUST APPLY TO SAVE HANDS FROM DRAFT

SECRETARY BAKER HAS CLOSE CALL-SHELLS BURSTS WITHIN FORTY YARDS OF HIS AUTO

Washington, March 20—Farmers seeking to have their help given deferred classification in the draft must file affidavits with local draft boards, the Department of Labor announced today. Attention was called to the fact that the boards have no authority to give deferred classification otherwise.

If farmers whose hands are affected in this new call fail to file affidavits they should have no cause for complaint if their men are taken from them at this critical time," the statement says. "It will be useless to protest later."

SPIES CAPTURED

In the great patriotic picture, "A Daughter of Uncle Sam" which will have its first showing at the Pastime Saturday, March 23. Jane Vanee and William Scerelle assume the leading parts.

With the American Army in France, Tuesday, March 19—While Secretary of War Baker and his party were returning today from the American front line trenches, a German 105 milimeter shell burst along the read-side within forty yards of the automobile. The occupants of the car were not injured, nor was the car damaged.

Secretary Baker remained for an hour and a half in a front-line trench in a certain sector under a brisk enemy shell fire. He also visited an advanced listening post and talked with the officers and men.
